The calendar grid consists of a large area with a horizontal dotted line near the top, creating a space for daily notes or tasks. Vertical shaded columns are placed at the beginning of each weekend (Saturdays and Sundays) to indicate non-working days. The grid is otherwise empty, providing a structured space for planning and scheduling.

The calendar grid for March 2018 features a dotted grid pattern. The first row is a header row containing the days of the month (1-31) and their corresponding days of the week. The subsequent rows are the days of the month, with the first row of the grid starting on Thursday, March 1st. The grid is divided into columns by vertical lines, and the weekend columns (Saturdays and Sundays) are shaded in a light gray color. The grid is bounded by a solid horizontal line at the top and a solid horizontal line at the bottom.
