The grid consists of 31 vertical columns, each representing a day of the month. Each column is bounded by vertical red lines. Within each column, there are horizontal dotted lines that create rows for writing. The first row of the grid is aligned with the date numbers and day names provided above. The grid is designed for daily journaling or record-keeping.

The calendar grid consists of a large area with a dotted grid pattern. The grid is bounded by solid lines on the top, bottom, and left sides. The top-left corner of the grid is aligned with the '1' in the date header. The grid is divided into columns by vertical dotted lines, corresponding to the days of the month. Vertical pink highlights are present in the columns for the 3rd, 4th, 10th, 11th, 17th, 18th, 24th, and 25th, representing weekends. The grid is otherwise empty, with no text or markings inside the cells.
